

Free Little Libraries & Pantries in the Moose Jaw Area

What are Free Little Libraries and Pantries?

- They are small boxes located throughout a community that contain books and/or other items that can often be exchanged at anytime.

Who are they for?

- Typically, they are for neighbours helping neighbours. They can help people who cannot easily get to a store or to a library to access books. They can also be used to help people meet everyday needs.

How do they work?

- Books and/or other items are often for exchange. However, some may also be open for donations.

Other Items to Donate

If you want to donate items other than books, be sure to get approval from the private owner or the organization where it is located. Besides books, other items to consider donating are:

Puzzles	Soap, shampoo, conditioner	Toothbrushes and dental floss
Games	Toques, scarves, mitts	Disposable feminine hygiene products
	Hygiene products	Diapers

Food Items

If you want to donate food items, approval from the private owner or the organization is a must! Food can spoil and attract pests. If food is approved, be sure:

- That the library/pantry is well built and sealed so there is protection from weather and pests.
- To only include low-risk foods appropriate to the season such as dry goods in the summer or bread products in the winter.
- To only include foods with a best before date that has not passed.
- That foods are sealed in the original packaging and without damage.
- To store food on a separate shelf from other non-food items in the library/pantry.
- To check back on food items regularly for spoilage, damage or pests.
