sogutlu will appear in court virtually wednesday morning a man has been arrested after barricading himself inside a construction crane high above downtown toronto. a worker found the unauthorized person inside the cab of the crane around 7:00 this morning at a site near yonge and harbour. firefighters had to climb roughly 140 feet above the ground to rescue the man and lower him to safety. a small fire that had been lit inside the cab was also put out. there's no word if any charges will be laid.

. it's been 33 years since an attack at eole polytechnique that left 14 women dead. decade later experts say more still needs to be done to protect women. >> i think the importance of continuing to pause and remember the women who were murdered in montreal 33 years ago is particularly significant because the problem hasn't stopped and, if anything, in some ways it's been exacerbated. incidents of domestic and intimate partner violence are on the rise. we've seen that since the pandemic. you can speak to our clinicians and they will tell you that as well that we're seeing more and more people in our sexual assault and domestic violence clinic who have been victims of intimate partner violence. >> erica: since last november, 52 women, children, trans women, two-spirit people and gender nonconforming people have been murdered in canada. mayor john tory and health minister sylvia jones were also in attendance today at women's college hospital, one of several gatherings being held across the country today. our felisha adam is in montreal where tragedy struck more than three decades ago. >> we are students. we
